Practice Your Lag Putting

1. Cut multiple pieces of string, each about three feet long.
2. Lay the string out on a putting green, evenly spaced, each string about three feet apart, across your chosen putting line.
3. Start about 10 feet behind the first string. Now putt a ball and try to roll it just over the first string. Putt a second ball and try to roll it just over the second string, and so on. When you reach the last string, start working your way back to the first string.
4. Once you become good at stopping balls in-between the string, start varying the distances - putt to the first string, then the fifth, then the third, then the last, and so on, varying your distances.
